

Dear Merchant,

Why are you in business? To make a profit.

Profit is determined by how economically you leverage your time and resources with your customers.

Business has changed FOREVER with COVID. You MUST squeeze out MORE profit from fewer customers. At the same time, you must cope with higher wholesale costs and increased employment costs. Your employees are less skilled and indifferent. Your business space is more expensive than ever to maintain.

You have a window of opportunity to change your bottom line potentially radically. Let me show you how to leverage your current business with little to no additional overhead. Not only can you increase your profits with the same space, but it is possible to generate revenue even after you close your business for a true retirement.

The process can be as simple as posting flyers or QR codes prominently in your business and we handle all business aspects. A more complex model would be to display high keystone products for immediate sale to target markets while we handle any repeat purchases and business dealings still profiting you.

I ask you to keep an open mind for a paradigm shift. Give me fifteen minutes of your time to explain how and why our model could change everything from helping pay the electric bill to providing retirement income.

This opportunity is long term; however, first mover action will assuredly reap greater benefits.

I am specifically looking for public facing brick and mortar companies. There is current rapid growth in the sports, medical, and beauty industry. My next target market for April 2024 is the energy drink industry. The last target market for Christmas 2023 was women's health and specifically targeting stress or other hormone issues.

These current target markets are billion-dollar industries each. We have new breakthrough technology that is providing results that have NEVER been achieved before. Do you want to be able to be paid on an opportunity for years to come regardless of the status of your brick-and-mortar business?

You could be a shoe store with a flyer in your door window, that generates years of income from a foreign country customer visiting one time during tourist season. You could be a truck stop owner selling an energy drink to a few drivers who end up helping you get paid on all energy drinks sold at other convenience stores, just because the drivers asked the next location for the product. Or you could be a dry cleaner owner using the products for your own use while displaying a flyer that could engage an entire mall using and selling our products for YOUR profit.

Do you want everyone to bring these revolutionary products to your attention, or do you want to profit educating your current customers through a QR code who then tell the world?

Contact me and I will discuss the options that best fit your business model.
